2017 SEASON NOTEBOOK

READY TO GROW

THE BULLDOGS HAVE EXPERIENCED A LOT OF CHANGE, BUT ALL ROADS LEAD TO EXCITING TIMES AHEAD.

BLACK TAKES OVER HELM

Tom Black, an accomplished collegiate and international coach, was named the seventh head coach of the Georgia volleyball program.

Black comes to Athens with 12 years of NCAA head coaching experience with time at UC San Diego and Loyola Marymount, accumulating a career record of 242-115 after posting six seasons with 20-plus wins.

Working with some of the top athletes in the country, Black has been extremely active with the U.S. Women's National Team over the last few years, working alongside U.S. head coach Karch Kiraly. Black most recently served on the staff at the 2016 Rio Olympic games as an assistant coach with the United States garnering a bronze medal.

BENNING, ARRIOLA JOIN STAFF

Aaron Benning and Felicia Arriola joined the coaching staff as assistants in the offseason.

Benning and Arriola come to Athens after each spending the last three seasons with Black at Loyola Marymount where the trio led the Lions to two NCAA appearances, including a trip to the Sweet 16 after upsetting nationally-ranked Colorado State and Stanford in Palo Alto.

In addition to LMU's NCAA showings, Benning and Arriola assisted in notching a pair of 20-win seasons. The 24 wins LMU recorded in 2015 were the most for the program since collecting 26 in 2003. In 2015 LMU also finished third in the West Coast Conference, another best for the team since 2003. Under Benning and Arriola's guidance, LMU had four AVCA All-America selections, six AVCA All-Region picks, an AVCA Region Freshman of the Year and 11 All-Conference honorees along with the Defensive Player of the Year last season.

BULLDOGS EARN ACADEMIC HONORS

Hard work in the classroom earned nine current Georgia volleyball student-athletes a spot on the J. Reid Parker Director of Athletics Honor Roll for their spring semester GPAs. In all, 333 student-athletes at Georgia were named to the list.

Of those honored, Katie Houser was one of 36 Georgia student-athletes to be named to the Dean's List for a 3.50 or higher GPA while taking 14 or more hours. Other current student-athletes honored include T'ara Ceasar, Meghan Donovan, Sydney Gilliam, Anna Kate Karstens, Cassidy Anderson, Amanda Dachs, Kendall Kazor and Caroline Ostman.

COMPETITVE SCHEDULE AWAITS

Another competitve schedule awaits Georgia in the 2017 season, highlighted by six NCAA Tournament teams.

In all, the Bulldogs will play 31 games, including 15 at home starting on August 25 with the Benson Hospitality Invitational. With 25 opponents on the docket, eight finished with 20 or more wins in 2016 while three of the six NCAA Tournament teams went on past the first round--all in SEC foes of Florida, Missouri and Kentucky.

DONOVAN SHOWS VERSATILITY

Meghan Donovan showed her versatility in her freshman season, as she was among the team and conference leaders in many statistical categories. Compared to other primary setters in the SEC, Donovan ranked second with 114 kills, third with 69 blocks and fifth with 221 digs.

The St. Louis native had a tremendous first season at Georgia. Donovan eclipsed 1,000 assists for the year, the first Bulldog setter to do that since Kathleen Gates in 2011. She also earned SEC Freshman of the Weeks honors, the first for a Bulldog since Jasmine Eatmon in 2012.

ANDERSON IMPROVES IN YEAR THREE

Cassidy Anderson had a solid junior year, including improving in SEC play from one year ago. The Kentucky native tallied 208 digs in conference action in 2016, compared to 148 in SEC play in 2015. For the overall season, Anderson surpassed her sophomore total, as she held 408 digs (289 in 2015) en route to 801 in her career. Her attack at the service line was also up from one year ago. Anderson had 40 total aces, including 16 in the league slate. In 2015, Anderson had 31 total aces with 13 coming against SEC opponents.

KAZOR MAKES MOVE TO RIGHT SIDE

After serving as setter the past two seasons, Kendall Kazor made a change to the right side with the addition of freshman Donovan. Becoming an attacker is nothing foreign to Kazor, as she played outside in high school. The Texas product quickly picked it up, setting a career high with 14 kills against Arkansas while totaling double-digit kills eight times. Her defensive skills also allowed Kazor to set a personal-best eight blocks at LSU.

INCOMING CLASS RANKED NO. 30 NATIONALLY

With seven talented newcomers joining the 2017 roster, the incoming signing class came in at No. 30 in the nation in the recruiting rankings. At Black's disposal will be two outside hitters, two setters, two defensive specialists and a middle blocker in his freshmen group.

DACHS CONTINUES PLAY AND EDUCATION

Amanda Dachs will enter the 2017 season already a college graduate, as the redshirt senior earned her undergraduate degree in finance this May. The Georgia native will now go on and pursue her graduate degree in kinesiology

Dachs redshirted her first year in Athens after an injury in high school. Injuries then played a part in her last two seasons, as a knee injury cut her 2015 season short and didn't allow her to play much in the non-conference action in 2016. However, upon her return, Dachs returned to pre-injury form. The outside hitter had two double-doubles, including a 16-kill, 13-dig effort at LSU. Her 16 kills against the Tigers tied her season high that she had at Arkansas and was one shy of her career best. She responded to that performance with 13 kills at Texas A&M, which led all players in the three-set match.

IT JUST MEANS MORE ALUMNI SUCCEED AFTER UGA

Life after Georgia has seen many volleyball alumni excel at the highest level. From Olympians in Elizabeth Reid and Alexandra Oquendo to playing professionally like Kathleen Gates, Bulldogs continue to succeed on the court. Some have taken to the sideline -- Jenny McDowell has led Emory volleyball to great heights and Maria Taylor has found her spot on the crew for ESPN's College Gameday and ABC Saturday Night Football games.

Whether it's in sports, in the community or out in the workforce, Georgia alumni continue to make a difference. These former Bulldogs have proven that at the University of Georgia and in the SEC it just means more.
